

Seminar Series: Community-Engaged Research in Practice: Lessons from Recruitment, Dissemination, and Evaluation

Great science starts with great community partnerships. Join us for an interactive session exploring how to put community-engaged research into practice — from recruitment to dissemination to evaluation. Through real-world scenarios and collaborative discussion, you'll uncover common pitfalls, missed opportunities, and practical strategies to strengthen community engagement at every stage of your research.

Come ready to think critically, share insights, and leave with tools you can use.

Following this event, you will be able to:

- Identify key principles of community-engaged research and how they apply across different stages of a study
- Assess common research practices for missed opportunities in meaningful community engagement
- Apply practical strategies to strengthen recruitment, dissemination, and evaluation.

Location: Via Zoom

Nicole Wolfe, PhD
Co-director, Community
Engagement SC CTSI

DATE & TIME:

May 14, 2026

12:00 - 1:00 pm PST

SCAN ME

